Message:
1. Go to https://jsac.jpcert.or.jp/en/index.html to find the list of speakers for 2023.
2. Look for speakers whose profile pictures are made of famous Japanese foods.
3. Find a restaurant on "tabelog.com" that offers the same menu item as in the photo.
4. Answer the restaurant code on "tabelog.com".

Note: "tabelog" URL structure looks like this:

  https://tabelog.com/en/{area_name}/{area_code}/{city_code}/{restaurant_code}

If the URL your found is https://tabelog.com/en/tokyo/A1304/A130401/12345678/, then the FLAG is CSG_FLAG{12345678}.

Instructions:
The speakers page is here.
https://jsac.jpcert.or.jp/archive/2023/en/speakers.html
You will find the target image at the bottom of the page

ni   Masaoki Shoji

Using Google Lens and search filters, you will be able to find images that use the same plate as that photo.

Follow the links found and check the restaurant code. The correct URL is below.

https://tabelog.com/en/tokyo/A1302/A130201/13249397/

So, the correct flag is CSG_FLAG{13249397}.

Tabelog is Japan's most popular restaurant review site. It offers a vast database of restaurants, including local gems that might be hard to find otherwise. You can read reviews, check out photos, and even make reservations through the site. And it is more than just a review site. It also offers a handy map feature that lets you find restaurants near you, and you can filter your search by cuisine, price range, and even dietary restrictions.
